| Calcutta Custom House. Collector's reference whether or not, under clause XV, section XLVIII of Regulation X of 1810, it is intended that the duties should in future be levied with the advance of six per cent. on the cargoes of Arab or other vessels under foreign colours importing from places within the limits of the Company's exclusive trade. Board of opinion that no ground has arisen for the Collector's reference, as the clause and section of Regulation IX of 1810, quoted by him, is nothing more than a re-enactment of the general rule respecting foreign trade to this port; and that by clause IV, section V of Regulation XXXIX of 1795, an advance of sixty per cent. was required to be added to the prime cost of the cargoes of all ships under "Foreign colours" importing from Europe or elsewhere the same as is now in clause XV of Regulation X of 1810. Collector informed that in levying the duties on the cargoes of Arab vessels which have arrived and may arrive in the river, he should consider them as even exempted from the advance of the sixty per cent. in question, and that the Board concur in the construction he has put upon section LXIII of Regulation IX of 1810, that the settlements of Serampore, Chandernagore and Chinsurah are not to be considered as foreign settlements until restored on the conclusion of peace | 18th Sept. | 30-32             |  |
| Bhagulpore. Collector informed that the prohibition contained in Board's Circular of 18th May 1810, regarding collection of duties on grain, was applicable to grain of every description, and that the—cannot be extended to the towns of Monghyr, Rajmehal and Surujgurh, as they are not mentioned in the Regulation                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 29th June  | 33-34             |  |
